The event follows the successful first edition organized in June 2019 in Košice, which brought together dozens of representatives of companies and research and development institutions, operating in the space sector. This year themed “Emerging Space” [2] focuses on the current trends in the space sector with an emphasis on new countries, actors, and activities involved.

Within the same day, the Slovak Aviation Industry Day will also be held for the first time. It will be dedicated to such areas as the manufacturing of aircrafts and aircraft components, software solutions, and innovation in aviation.

The programme also includes side-events organised by Košice Self-governing region and online B2B matchmaking (September 11).
